Marguerite Salazar
Commissioner of Insurance

January 25, 2017

To Whom It May Concern:

Marguerite Salazar, Commissioner of Insurance, announces an opportunity to join the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board. All interested parties who meet the qualifications below are encouraged to apply.

The Workers' Compensation Appeals Board was created to hear grievances brought by employers against their workers' compensation insurer concerning the calculation of experience modification factors and classification assignment decisions. The board meets periodically, approximately 2-3 times per year.

The board, as defined in §8-55-101, C.R.S., consists of five voting members: two representatives of the insurance industry and three representatives of private employers. One of the private employers must represent the construction industry. Statutes prohibit the private employers from being an employee of an insurance company, insurance broker, insurance agent, law firm, actuary, Pinnacle Assurance, or any association of such entities or persons.

There is currently one vacancy on the board. The vacancy is for an individual of private employers.

The individual must be knowledgeable in workers' compensation insurance, rules, and classifications, and must be familiar with the business environment and community in Colorado. Any specific information that will be required, such as classification definitions or applicable statutes, will be provided by the secretary of the board.

Interested parties who satisfy these requirements are encouraged to submit a resume detailing work history and workers' compensation insurance experience to the Colorado Division of Insurance at the address or email listed below. One individual will be selected after a careful review of all qualified applicants. All resumes must be postmarked no later than February 22, 2017.
